CITY AND COUNTY NEWS IN BRIEF

Eagles To Venice

The favorite slogan heard upon the streets of Venice these days is "The Eagles are coming! The Eagles are coming!" The greatest convention in the history of the organization is anticipated and from one end of the state to the other reservations have been pouring in for accommodations and information. It is the last chance for a royal good time where goodfellowship can flow freely and it is the purpose of every Eagle to make 1919 a memorable occasion.

Baby's Dress Blood-Covered

Mystery shrouds the finding of a baby girl's dress badly stained with blood in the orange grove owned by Ben Casey, near San Bernardino avenue in Rialto, by a ranch hand as he was cultivating. The dress, apparently badly worn, had been hidden under an orange tree. Around the neck of the dress was a big blood stain and around the bottom another huge spot of blood bespoke either a tragedy or an accident.

Graves Are Ancient

San Bernardino Sun: That there are graves in the Pioneer cemetery with headstones carrying dates back into the 18th century, was discovered yesterday by Mayor John Henderson and Street Superintendent Clyde Pierson. Street forces of the city are now engaged in cleaning up Pioneer cemetery and that it will be in more presentable condition by Memorial day than for many years is the opinion of the officials. Among the ancient graves found in the cemetery are those of Sarah Martin, wife of Moses Martin, who was born in 1788 and died on March 17, 1877. Captain William O. Henry's grave is marked by a stone showing he was born in 1798.

To Entertain Service Men

Next Thursday evening the Corona people will do honors to the service young men who went from that town during the war. The ladies will entertain at a reception and banquet at the women's club house.

To those who wantingly, petitioned for the removal of the Lookingbill Sale Yards, will say that you will have an opportunity to buy them at Public Action on Tuesday, May 7, at 4 P. M., be there, you? "Lookingbill."

Planting in Coachella

The acreage of date palms in Coachella valley has been increased by 60 acres during the past month. The plantings have been made by Los Angeles and Santa Ana residents. The planting season is still going ahead. The oldest date trees in the valley are now putting forth the biggest crop they ever bore.

If in need of a choice family cow, or an addition to your dairy herd, you will find those kind at the Lookingbill Combination Sale, at his Sale Yards, on Magnolia Ave., Tuesday, May 27. Real cows, tuberculin tested.

It is reported by the exchange associations in the San Gabriel valley that the only navel oranges now remaining in California are in the vicinity of San Dimas and that they comprise 50 boxes. The season is unusually late this year and the chilly weather during the last ten weeks is chiefly responsible for the long keeping qualities of the fruit on the trees.

Memorial Committee Meets

Captain Paul F. Cadman, manager of the campaign among the alumni of the University of California, met with a committee of Riversideans at luncheon in the Glenwood Mission Inn, explaining to them the purpose of the Henry Morse Stephens memorial, which is to take the form of a students union at the university and for which faculty, students and alumni are working at this time. He met with J. R. Gabbert, Dick Welch, Jr., Professor H. J. Quayle, and Professor Rogers of Davis. Preliminary plans were made for opening the campaign in Riverside among alumni and friends of the university. Cadman was recently discharged from the army after having spent two years in the service, being in the second division and in active fighting in France.

To Mortgage Church

Petition to mortgage its property for $500 was filed yesterday in County Clerk Clayton's office by the Blythe Methodist Episcopal church. The mortgage is to be given to secure a loan advanced by the Methodist board of home missions and church extensions.

Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS DRAWS BIG CROWD

Clever Gymnastic Entertainment Success in Every Particular; Bury Old Man Gloom

The Y. M. C. A. gymnasium was crowded to capacity last night when the circus was started by Master of Ceremonies C. J. Carlson. The character of the exhibition was such and the fun of the clowns was so spontaneous that the enthusiasm of the crowd did not wane from start to finish.

The show opened with the "Burial of Gloom." Old Gloom was carried around the ring on his bier followed by a sorrowful crowd of clown mourners. After the "burial" came a clever toe dance and then the grand parade of all the performers, from acrobats to clowns.

Among the features attracting great attention were several demonstrations with apparatus by four representatives of the Los Angeles school for physical education. Peter Hol, all round N. A. A. U. champion for apparatus; Paul Krempel, N. A. A. U. champion on the sidehorse; Conrad Jacobs, and Eddie Dunn were the men representing the Los Angeles school. They were seen in several excellent demonstrations with the parallel bars, sidehorse and rings. Such gymnastic feats as these men were able to perform are not often seen in Riverside.

Fencing by two members of the local Japanese association was a feature that took the crowd by storm. For fully 15 minutes the fencers "laid out" manfully with their long bamboo lances. This method of settling disputes was new to the majority of the audience and was popular from the first.

Lieutenant Wilson, physical director of March field, was seen in two numbers, a clever Indian club swinging exhibition was his first contribution. He later directed a clever clown dance given by members of the Y. M. C. A.

Not to be outdone by the boys, the Y. W. C. A. was on hand in force and contributed not a little to the success of the program. A maypole dance and a pretty floral dance were the numbers sponsored by the association.

Members of the Tri-County Reformation committee were jubilant yesterday when they received word that Governor Stephens had signed senate bill No. 280, known as the conservancy act.

This law will make it possible for the citizens of Riverside, San Bernardino, and Orange counties to unite in one great conservation and flood district of the entire Santa Ana river watershed. This district, when formed, will have power to carry on reforestation, to build check dams, to conserve water, and in fact to take every known means of conserving water and preventing flood damage.

The bill also provides for re-organization by the state and federal governments so that if it is possible to secure the appointment of the commission provided for in the Newlands River Regulation amendment such a district as this might join forces with the state and federal governments to their mutual advantage. However, action by the local communities is not now dependent upon action by the state or federal government. The passage of this bill means that people have a means of uniting locally to protect themselves against flood damage, to conserve water for beneficial use, as far as possible, the flood waters of any given watershed.

The widest publicity is to be given this measure so that all who are interested in flood control and conservation of water may be advised of how best to accomplish the greatest measure of conservation and protection from flood damage.

JURUPA CENTER OFFERS $25 PRIZE

At a meeting of the Jurupa farm center last night, the members voted that $25 be offered for a prize for the best canned fruit or vegetable entered in the Jurupa exhibit at the county fair next fall. The Jurupa farm center has always had one of the best exhibits entered at the fair, and with the interest of the women of the community stimulated by this offer, it is believed that the Jurupa entry will be bigger and better than before.

Prof. S. S. Rogers from the University of California was a speaker at last night's meeting and gave the ranchers valuable information regarding the growing and selection of reliable seeds. Prof. Houser strongly advocates that every rancher raise his own seed and thus be assured of the best obtainable.

BAYLEY TO LEAD MEMORIAL DAY PARADE

Three Speakers at Cemetery; One for Each of Great Wars

C. B. Bayley was yesterday named as grand marshal of the Memorial day parade. He will appoint his aides today.

Final plans for the annual observance of Memorial day were completed at a meeting in Mayor Porter's office yesterday of all the committees. It is hoped that the day's ceremonies may be more impressive than ever, and efforts to that end have been made.

Starting promptly at 9 o'clock from Sixth and Main streets the procession will take its way along Main to Twelfth street, thence to Evergreen cemetery.

A brief program of addresses will be given at the cemetery. Following this a half dozen airplanes from March field will sprinkle flowers on the graves of veterans and the memorial program will have ended.

Three Speakers

Mayor Porter said yesterday, one to represent the Civil war, one the Spanish-American war, and one the Great war. "I am not yet ready to make public their names," he stated. The addresses are to consume not more than five minutes, and the program is to be finished by 11:30 o'clock, it is planned.

A large number of patriotic and civic organization have been invited to participate in the parade. Most of these will accept, it is believed. Veterans of the three wars, March field soldiers, and Poly High cadets will also be in line.

CLEAN-UP DAY SUCCESSFUL HERE

Riverside Now as Spic and Span as Real Spotless Town

All Riverside—or nearly all—had a housecleaning yesterday.

It was the first of the clean-up days officially designated last week by the city council. Last night lots had been rid of weeds and rubbish, tin cans and bottles had been gathered up and untidy alleys had been made spic and span.

Today another general housecleaning will be observed, and by night, it is expected, Riverside will be right in the same class with the original spotless town.

The street department will have men and teams on the streets today to haul away rubbish, and city officials say there will be no excuse for untidy lots, streets, or alleys.

Fire Chief Joe Schneider has been a consistent booster for a real clean-up day. Yesterday one of the fire trucks was active for several hours calling attention to the campaign of cleanliness. On the side of the truck were banners asking property owners to properly observe the day. The clanging bell drew Riversideans to the street, believing there was a fire.

When they saw the chief's admonitory banners, they took the hint and began to hunt up accumulated rubbish.

Chief Schneider believes Clean-up day will be of great value in preventing fires, and that the good accomplished in making the city neat and clean for next week's big conventions.

COMMITTEE PLEASED AT BILL'S SUCCESS; TO FORM DISTRICT

Members of the Tri-County Reformation committee were jubilant yesterday when they received word that Governor Stephens had signed senate bill No. 280, known as the conservancy act.

This law will make it possible for the citizens of Riverside, San Bernardino, and Orange counties to unite in one great conservation and flood district of the entire Santa Ana river watershed.
