 Teachers' Bureau Records
 Originals 1923, 1928 13 cm

The Teachers' Bureau was established by the Department of Education in 1920 and was administered by the Department's Registrar, J.L. Watson. The Bureau functioned as a kind of employment exchange by acquainting unemployed teachers with vacancies in rural school districts, and by providing rural school boards with the names of suitable candidates. In 1922/1923, the bureau received notices of approximately three hundred vacancies from rural school districts, two hundred of which were filled by applicants who had been recommended by the bureau.

Watson's office also functioned as a information bureau, by providing applicants with details about country schooled districts and, generally, by gathering information on the province's many small rural and assisted schools. To this end, the bureau circulated the School District Information Forms which constitute GR-0461. The questionnaires were distributed to rural school teachers in 1923 and again in 1928. There is no record of similar forms being sent in other years.

Not every rural and assisted schooled is represented in this collection. In the year ending June 1923, there were 684 rural and assisted schools in British Columbia; only 651 schools are represented for 1923 in this collection. Likewise, 728 rural and assisted schools were open in the year ending June 1928, while only 711 questionnaires are on record here.

Some questionnaires are accompanied by attached photograph(s) of the school, indicated by an asterisk * in the following list. Loose photographs were removed and transferred to Visual Records accession 198405-001. The location of this accession is currently unknown.
